

Motivation for Adopting Community Emergency Response Technologies

Philip Fei Wu Email: fwu@umd.edu

COLLEGE OF INFORMATION
STUDIES

MARYLAND'S iSCHOOL

Three-Phase, Mixed-Methods Research Design

The purpose of the study is to determine the factors that motivate members of a community to adopt response technologies.

The main research site is University of Maryland, College Park (UMCP).

The population of interest is current UMCP students.

The response technologies investigated in this study are UMD Alerts and UMD Community Response Grid.

