

SUMMARY OF TALK AT THE PETSCHKEK SYMPOSIUM

I first met Harry Petschek as an outstanding student in my thermodynamics course at Cornell University. He became my closest collaborator for the quarter-century ending in my retirement. I will briefly sketch his work in plasma physics (other than magnetic reconnection) as well as several other projects in which we collaborated. He was not only a distinguished physicist, but a very caring human being.

Arthur Kantrowitz
2/28/06