

Appendix VI

Summary of Simile Characteristics

Table VI-1 and VI-2 below compare the simile characteristics described in other appendices. This includes the following:

- Each simile is identified in the first three columns by its book number (Book #), index number in the book (Index #), and line number in the book (Line #).
- The Scene column identifies whether the simile is a Scene (Yes) or a short phrase or clause (No).
- The Vehicle column shows the vehicle(s) associated with the similes. Appendix I shows various broad categories of these vehicles.
- The Tenor column shows the tenor(s) associated with similes as described in Appendix II. For those similes for which multiple tenors correspond to multiple vehicles, the order of the tenors in this column is picked to match the order of the matching vehicles in the Vehicle column.
- The Neg. / Double / Triple column shows identifies similes that fall into some of the simile types described in Appendix V, including:
 - Neg. refers to negative similes in which the tenor is described as being not like the vehicle.
 - Double and Triple refer to similes with two or three vehicles.
- The Prothesis Type column shows the prothesis of the simile. Appendix III provides a further compilation of the protheses.
- The Speaker column identifies the speaker of the simile. A further compilation of the speakers of the similes by book number in each poem is provided in Tables V-1 and V-2 of Appendix V-D.
- Clusters of closely-spaced similes are highlighted in light green or light blue and shown in thicker boxed cells. Clusters shaded in light green have similes that are thematically connected. Clusters in light blue have similes that are unrelated. Large gaps of greater than 200 lines between successive similes are shown by dashed purple lines. Appendix VII discusses simile clusters and the large gaps further.
