Disclaimer

This syllabus is subject to change with advanced notice to the students. Unforeseen events will require adjustment to the syllabus.

Course Description

This course examines the challenges and opportunities of globalization across regions of the world. We will see the interconnections, homogenizations across space, but also the uneven impacts across regions due to their diverse geographies and histories. By examining each region, we begin to understand the social, political, economic, and environmental similarities and differences across regions. The aim is to be able to contextualize current affairs and contemporary issues within the regional contexts and with a critical lens.

Objectives

At the completion of this course students will be able to:

- Critically analyze and contextualize global issues and current events
- Connect local issues to global phenomenon and local phenomenon to global issues
- Take a regional approach to understanding contemporary issues
- Understand the concept of “regions” and the cultural, political, economic, environmental geographies of regions
- Understand relationships between people and places, and think geographically and critically about your place in the world.
- Develop the ability to synthesize material and construct well –thought out written arguments about current geographic issues

Textbook (required)

Marston Sallie et al. (2014) World Regions in Global Context: Peoples, Places, and Environments. 5th edition), Pearson

ISBN-10: 032182105X

Evaluation

Final grades comprise of the following:

Midterm Exam	30 %
Final Exam	35 %
Quizzes	15 %
Current Affairs Reaction	10 %
In-Class Participation and Activities	10 %

Exams: There will be two exams, worth 30% or 35% of your grade. These are non-cumulative (final exam will contain material from midterm onward only). Exams comprise of multiple choice or true/false questions (same format as quizzes), and may contain a short written component. The final exam is on November 29th as indicated on this syllabus. Make up exams may be in essay or short-answer format, and will only be given in extenuating circumstances at the discretion of the professor.

Quizzes: There are five quizzes, each will cover 1 or 2 chapters. Quizzes are due on Mondays indicated on the schedule – they will open on Wednesday after class and close before class on the Monday they are due. Quizzes are administered on UBLearns. Late quizzes may not be accepted, if and when late submissions are accepted the grade may be capped. The time and date of quizzes will be announced in class as well as on the syllabus. It is your responsibility to complete the quiz. If you have technical problems, e-mail me straight away.

Current Affairs Reaction: This is a short written paragraph. For each chapter students must find two news articles from the past month that relate to issues discussed in lecture or the textbook chapter. These must be from reputable news sources such as The New York Times, Reuters, The Guardian, BBC News, NPR etc. News sources such as BuzzFeed, Gawker, and The Onion, Yahoo, are not considered reputable. Students must provide a citation of the article (authors name, date of publication, title of article, publishing company, date accessed, and url). The first sentence should be an argumentative thesis or statement. The rest of the paragraph should be a summary of the articles and an explanation of how they support your argument. These will be graded out of 10 (7 points for completing the assignment, and 3 points for following the correct format, spelling and grammar, relevance, and including citations). Current Affairs Reactions will be submitted online through UBLearns in the Assignments section. They are due before class on the due date. AS INDICATED on the syllabus schedule.

In-Class Participation and Activities: While attendance is not taken, you are strongly encouraged to attend class as there will occasionally be graded in-class activities. Furthermore, there will be opportunities to get points for participating in class by answering questions and participating in discussion. You are responsible for coming up to me after class to make sure I have noted your participation.

Grading: The plus/minus grading system will be used to assign student grades, which will be determined as follows:

93 – 100 = A
90 – 92.9 = A-
87 – 89.9 = B+
83 – 86.9 = B
80 – 82.9 = B-
77 – 79.9 = C+
73 – 76.9 = C
70 – 72.9 = C-
67 – 69.9 = D+
63 – 66.9 = D
60 – 62.9 = D
<60 = F

Minor adjustments to this scale might be made based on the performance of the class as a whole.

Textbook: The textbook is available at the UB Bookstore, and should be available online affordably from Amazon etc. Please buy the 5th edition, earlier versions will be too outdated. A newer 6th edition is available but this class will follow the 5th edition for affordability, lectures will include updated information where necessary.

Class Policies

UBLearns: Class materials, course announcements, and grades will be posted to UBLearns. Quizzes and assignments will generally also be administered through UBLearns.

E-mail: All correspondence will be via UBLearns and via UB e-mail. Students are responsible for checking UBLearns and their UB e-mail. The professor may not always reply to emails after 6pm or on weekends. E-mails should be respectful and professional – do not use text speech, emojis, and consider the topic of your e-mail before sending.

Weather: In cases of extreme weather in the Buffalo/Rochester area, classes may be cancelled with prior notice.

Professionalism: Attendance is expected, if you miss class you are expected to cover the material on your own or by seeking missed material from your class mates. You are expected to be on time, lateness is disrespectful and disruptive. If you must arrive late or leave early, sit by the exit as to not disrupt the class. Cellphone use is discouraged.

Academic Integrity

Previously submitted work: Submitting academically required material that has been previously submitted—in whole or in substantial part—in another course, without prior and expressed consent of the instructor will not be tolerated.

Plagiarism: Copying or receiving material from any source and submitting that material as one's own, without acknowledging and citing the particular debts to the source (quotations, paraphrases, basic ideas), or in any other manner representing the work of another as one's own will not be tolerated.

Cheating: Soliciting and/or receiving information from, or providing information to, another student or any other unauthorized source (including electronic sources such as cellular phones and PDAs), with the intent to deceive while completing an examination or individual assignment will not be tolerated.
